THEY EXIST IN TWO DIFFERENT CENTURIES, BUT THEIR LOVE DEFIES TIME

Cassandra craves drama and adventure, so the last thing she wants is to spend her summer marooned with her mother and stepfather in a snooty Massachusetts shore town. But when a dreamy stranger shows up on their private beach claiming it's his own—and that the year is 1925—she is swept into a mystery a hundred years in the making.

As she searches for answers in the present, Cassandra discovers a truth that puts their growing love—and Lawrence's life—into jeopardy. Desperate to save him, Cassandra must find a way to change history...or risk losing Lawrence forever.

"TIME STOOD STILL AS I READ THIS BREATHTAKINGLY BEAUTIFUL STORY.
I DIDN'T WANT IT TO END."

—Kasie West, author of The Fill-In Boyfriend and The Distance Between Us

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Renee Collins grew up on a beach in Hawaii. Sadly, she never met anyone from the past on those shores, but she did go on to get a degree in history, which is almost the same. She currently lives in Colorado with her family. Visit her at reneecollinsauthor.com.

Discussion Guide

1. Both Cassandra and Lawrence were struggling with something at the beginning of the book. Did they find resolve with that by the end? In what ways did each character grow?
2. What similarities do Lawrence and Cassandra share in spite of the nearly hundred years that separate them? What are some of their differences?
3. Why was Cassandra so reluctant to tell Lawrence anything about the future? Should she have told him more?
4. Did Lawrence love Fay? Was she true competition for Cassandra?
5. Was Lawrence destined to die? Or do you think meeting Cassandra contributed to that? Did her actions in trying to save Lawrence actually seal his fate? Or do you think things would have become deadly with Ned and his shady business deals no matter what?
6. Do you think Cassandra could have done something different in her efforts to save Lawrence? What would you have done in her shoes?
7. The transformative power of love is a major theme in the novel. How did Lawrence and Cassandra's love for each other transform them?
8. What do you think Cassandra meant when she told Lawrence, "Love is its own reason," near the end of the story?
9. If it had been possible to travel into each other's time, should the characters have done so? What sacrifices would they have had to make to adjust to each other's worlds? Who would it have been harder for?
10. If you could meet and fall in love with someone from another time, which era would you choose?
